

Society for Acupuncture Research

San Francisco, CA, USA | April 27-29, 2017

Announcement and Call for Abstracts

Advancing the Precision Medicine Initiative through Acupuncture Research
Co-sponsored by the Department of Anesthesia at Stanford University

Late-breaking abstract submission deadline: December 1, 2016

(Late-breaking abstract submissions will be considered for poster presentations only.)

Purpose

The theme for Society for Acupuncture Research's 2017 conference will explore how personalized medicine influences, and is informed by, research on acupuncture and traditional East Asian medicine. The conference will also provide a forum for presentation of the latest advances in acupuncture research.

Abstract submission

Abstracts are solicited for presentations in the areas of clinical research, basic science and research methodology pertaining to acupuncture and other modalities of East Asian medicine including moxibustion, traditional herbs, Tai Chi, and Qi Gong. Abstracts will be reviewed by the conference Scientific Review Committee and prospective speakers will be informed by November 30, 2016 as to whether their research has been accepted for oral or poster presentation.

Please upload your late-breaking abstracts by December 1, 2016 to:

<https://www.softconf.com/h/sar2017/>

Late-breaking abstracts submitted after December 1, 2016 will not be considered.
